

To Whom It May Concern,

I am writing in support of K-LOVE and it's use of FM translators.

My entire family listens to K-LOVE as do a significant number of people in my neighborhood and surrounding community. I never have to worry about any of the content and how it might affect my children or others that are with us. I commute in my car an average of 120 miles per day and listen to KLOVE almost exclusively. Because of the number of different stations they transmit on in the area, I can listen to KLOVE my entire commute. This is a pretty unique experience and as a financial supporter, it is one that I value a great deal.

I think it would be a significant loss to the community if K-LOVE were impacted by LPFM broadcasting. They are the only family-values and faith-based station available 7x24x365 that I am aware in this area with coverage that allows listening across any significant distance. The other stations of this type in the area have limited broadcasting times and very short transmission range. I believe

K-LOVE plays a major role in promoting a faith-based family lifestyle. And this is something we are in very short supply of.

Thank you for your consideration. I would be happy to answer any follow-up questions that you may have.

Pete Bigley